Wraparound Experts: A Trusted Partner in Student Mental Health and Well-Being

According to the CDC, suicide is the second leading cause of death among children and adolescents ages 10–14, and the third leading cause among teens ages 15–19 in the United States. These alarming statistics reflect a growing mental health crisis—and schools are often on the front lines.

When a student expresses suicidal thoughts or behaviors, school leaders are frequently placed in the position of requiring a professional risk assessment before allowing a student to return. In those moments, families need guidance, and principals need a trusted referral option that ensures both safety and compassion. That's why Wraparound Experts is launching our Suicide Risk Assessment Service for the 2025–2026 school year.

This service includes:

- A timely, in-person assessment by a licensed mental health professional
- A written safety plan and clinical recommendations
- A clear path for families to fulfill school requirements and access appropriate care

This is not a full psychological evaluation, but a trauma-informed risk assessment focused on immediate safety and next steps. Our goal is to support families during high-stress moments and provide school leaders with a responsive, professional resource to recommend when mental health concerns arise.
